About the job

Omniscrypt is on the mission to build a highly scalable, extensible, and distributed e-commerce solution, which enables its enterprise clients to sell tickets to millions of customers. We're looking for a Senior .NET Backend Engineer to join our team and shape the future and definition of the product. You will work remotely and play a key role in shaping the engine with your diverse experience in software development and distributed systems expertise.

Tasks
Developing loosely coupled, complex, event-driven systems to process large amounts of data in a cloud environment.

Writing highly cohesive, clean and maintainable code.

Working cross-functionally with product managers, various software engineers, automation managers and non-technical people.

Learning new design patterns and technologies to support the engine.
Requirements
At least 5 years of experience with REST API, C#, .NET, .NET Core, Docker.

Significant professional experience building and architecting complex, distributed backend systems, including concepts such as microservices, event-driven architectures, domain-driven design and cloud computing.

Experience using and modeling SQL and NoSQL databases.

Track record writing tests and implementing CI/CDs.

Good verbal and written English communication skills.

Strong problem-solving skills and creativity.

(Bonus) Exposure to e-commerce, accounting or fintech projects.

(Bonus) Experience working in a highly agile development process.

(Bonus) DevOps knowledge.

(Bonus) Worked with Node.js and AWS. Benefits Competitive salary.

A long-term greenfield project with stable business clients.

Opportunities for the fast career progression within the company.

Flexible remote work and a team that is driven by strong values and a clear shared vision.

Working with the latest technologies and systems, which will challenge your skills and push

your creative limits. More Jobs Teacher Jobs In Ajman | Aldar Education Social Media
